HAKVOORT

HOME TO THE GOLDEN AGE

Nestled in the heart of a small Dutch village, this family yard has grand ambitions to expand its facilities to meet increased demand. The current yard is home to Golden Age - a 61m yacht that just about fits in the Hakvoort construction hall.

The emergence of a second construction site was also made necessary, after the order for the yacht Zeus, a 63.30m.

For these two yachts, naval architecture was entrusted to Diana Yacht Design, with the exterior lines of Golden Age given to Sinot Yacht Design. Zeus was given to René van der Velden, with the Owner requesting he create one of the most unique yachts on the water.

For several decades, Hakvoort was known for the high quality of the boats it built in its small yard. If investments are made to satisfy lovers of yachts with a strong character, the spirit of small business remains within the Hakvoort family. The most recent of the remarkable work done in this project is called Apostrophe, a 39m launched in 2013 and acclaimed by professionals and connoisseurs alike.
